Dear editors:

please find attached a manuscript for submission to The British Journal for the Philosophy of Science entitled "Vagueness and imprecise imitation in signaling games."

This material is a descendant of an earlier paper that was submitted to Philosophy of Science but was rejected. The present paper builds on our former work, but it is a completely new paper. We mention this because a reviewer might notice some similarities and overlap and wonder. Should you wish to see the correspondence with Philosophy of Science about the ancestor paper, we are happy disclose everything (previous submitted versions, reviewer comments, editorial letters and cover letters).

Thank you very much for your efforts!

Sincerely yours,

Michael Franke & José Pedro Correia
